

Client: C4 National Press
Source: The Guardian
Date: 13/01/2020

Keyword: Channel 4 Programme Publicity
Page: 14
Reach: 129053
Size: 254
Value: 5232.40

The Outsider

9pm, Sky Atlantic

Stephen King's 2018 bestseller about a high-school teacher accused of brutally murdering an 11-year-old boy gets a suitably gloomy adaptation from HBO, penned by The Deuce writer Richard Price. Ben Mendelsohn stars as Detective Ralph Anderson, dogged in the pursuit of his man, yet gradually unravelling as it becomes apparent that teacher Terry Maitland (Jason Bateman) may not be the culprit. Being a King novel, there are jump scares aplenty, yet it is the muted performances that make this an affecting whodunnit.

Ammar Kalia

Panorama: How to Save the High Street

8.30pm, BBC One

One in 10 UK shops sit empty, and journalist Adam Shaw is travelling around the country looking at innovative community schemes aimed at meeting the interrelated challenges of online shopping, government austerity and shifting demographics. Is there hope for the high street?

Ellen E Jones

Silent Witness

9pm, BBC One

A teenage boy gets into an acquaintance's car and is then found dead months later, pitching the forensics experts into the middle of a modern police management problem: beware the senior officer whose career depends on getting swift, cheap results. A two-part episode that concludes on Wednesday.

Jack Seale

Exposed: The Church's Darkest Secret

9pm, BBC Two

This two-part documentary examines the decades-long work of the victims of the bishop Peter Ball to bring him to justice for allegations of grooming and abuse dating back to the 1970s. With claims of a Church of England cover-up to contend with, this is a harrowing tale. AK

Cold Feet

9pm, ITV

Cold Feet is now a mature series in every sense of the word: it is beginning its ninth season and dealing with the triumphs and traumas of ongoing middle age. As we return, Jenny (Fay Ripley) has reached the end of her cancer treatment and James Nesbitt's Adam has landed himself in trouble at work.

Phil Harrison

Catching a Killer: A Diary from the Grave

9pm, Channel 4

This is an intricate documentary following a police unit piecing together the deaths of teacher Peter Farquhar in 2015 and Ann Moore-Martin in 2017. Both of them lived on the same street in the Buckinghamshire village of Maids Moreton and had recently written trainee vicar Ben Field into their wills. A chilling account. AK